

Bocock/Guerard Fiction Prize

$1,000 first place
$500 second place
$250 third place

The Creative Writing Program announces the annual competition for the Maclin Bocock/Albert Guerard prize for fiction of high literary merit. As writers and teachers, Maclin Bocock and Albert Guerard found that students of any age or academic major produce good writing. Bocock and Guerard believed in the importance of creative work of the imagination for all students, and the competition welcomes a wide diversity of writers.

Entries must be received by Tuesday, April 29, 2008, 4:00 p.m.
Margaret Jacks Hall, Room 216

Entries are solicited from all Stanford undergraduates and will be judged by a panel appointed by the Creative Writing Program. The prize winner will be announced in May.

The prize will be awarded to the best work of fiction, experimental or traditional. Entries may be a single short story or section of a longer work, not to exceed 8,000 words. Include a cover sheet with: a title, your name, year in school, email, telephone number, and the name of the prize ("Bocock/Guerard"). The author's name should not appear anywhere on the manuscript itself.

Hard copies only (except for students not currently in residence at Stanford). If you wish to submit to the Bocock/Guerard contest and the Mary Steinbeck Dekker Award, please do not use the same work for both. No submissions will be returned.
